ClearView and your Adviser

What will your Financial Adviser do?

Your Financial Adviser will consider your objectives, financial situation, needs and the type of advice that you are seeking, in order to ensure that they act in your best interests in relation to any advice that they provide to you. They will also ensure that their advice and any recommended products are appropriate for you.

Your Financial Adviser will set out their recommendations in a personalised Advice Document (Statement of Advice (SoA) or (Record of Advice (RoA)) which will include;

- Summary of your current situation
- Your goals and objectives
- Recommendations
- Information about any fees, commissions or other charges payable and any associations we have with financial product issuers or other parties.

If your Financial Adviser recommends a particular investment or insurance product to you, they will provide you with the relevant product brochures called Product Disclosure Statements (PDS) and/or Investor Directed Portfolio Service (IDPS) guides. These will give you information about the key benefits, risks and costs associated with the product, to enable you to make an informed decision about whether to make a purchase.

You are under no obligation to act on your Financial Adviser's advice, but if you do decide to follow their recommendations, they will help you complete the necessary documents to get your financial strategy underway.

What we expect from you

To enable your Financial Adviser to provide you with appropriate advice, you need to provide them with:

- Complete and accurate information about your personal objectives, financial situation and needs
- Information about any changes to your situation or contact details.

You may elect not to provide your Financial Adviser with certain information but if you do, you will need to consider the appropriateness of any advice provided to you before you act upon the advice.

You should carefully read any warnings contained in your Advice Documents.

Before your Financial Adviser provides you with advice, you will need to agree to the type and scope of advice to be provided. If you subsequently decide to act on their advice, you will need to provide your consent to proceed with the advice. This usually means signing a document called an 'Authority to Proceed' to confirm that you understand both the advice you have received and the benefits, risks and costs associated with the products or services recommended to you.

How is my Financial Adviser's advice paid for?

Any remuneration paid to your Financial Adviser for advice or by a product provider that relates to an individual financial product recommendation will be disclosed in the Advice document provided to you. Unless otherwise informed, all fees are inclusive of GST.

A Fee Disclosure Statement will be given to you each year if you choose to enter into an ongoing fee arrangement. It will outline the fees paid and the services you received in the preceding 12 months.

ClearView or a ClearView Financial Adviser may receive the following:

Initial Advice Fees: These are fees paid by you for;

- Research into your existing situation
- Research into any current or inforce investments followed
- Preparation and presentation of our advice and recommendations to you in an Advice Document

Ongoing Advice Fees: These are fees paid by you for the provision of ongoing advice on your portfolio/ strategy to ensure that it remains appropriate to your needs and circumstances.

Depending on the complexity of the advice and the services provided, if your Financial Adviser provides you with a further Advice Document, a fee may be payable. Any such fees and method of payment will be agreed between you and your Financial Adviser and may include up-front or ongoing fees, or a combination of both. The fees can be deducted from your product, invoiced directly to you or a combination of the two methods.

Commissions: These payments are made by the product providers in the form of initial and/or ongoing commissions. This is not an additional cost to you.

Superannuation and Investment Products

Your Financial Adviser may charge you an upfront fee in the range of 0% to 5% of the total investment amount. This may be deducted from your account.

In addition, your Financial Adviser may charge you an ongoing fee calculated in the range of 0% to 2.5% of your investment account balance. Generally, ongoing fees are payable on a monthly basis.

Life Insurance Products

In most cases, ClearView and/or your Financial Adviser will receive an up-front commission of up to 138% of your annual insurance premium for arranging your cover. In addition, ClearView and/or your Financial Adviser may receive an ongoing annual commission of up to 33% of your annual insurance premium. These commission payments are made by the relevant product issuers and are not an additional cost to you.

How are my financial products paid for?

Where your Financial Adviser recommends an investment or insurance product, details of the fees payable for that specific product will be contained in the relevant Advice Document and detailed in the related PDS or IDPS guide.

How will I know what is payable?

Details of all initial and ongoing advice fees and commissions will be disclosed to you in dollar amounts in the Advice Document provided by your Financial Adviser. You will receive the Advice Document before your Financial Adviser acts on your instructions unless you instruct them to act immediately, in which case all amounts payable will be disclosed to you verbally at the time that advice is provided.

How is ClearView and its Financial Advisers paid?

ClearView receives the up-front and ongoing fees that are payable by you and also receives any commissions payable by product providers.

Your Financial Adviser is entitled to between 60 and 100 percentage of initial/upfront and ongoing fees including adviser service fees and commissions with ClearView retaining the balance. This is used to provide support in terms of product research, software and technical expertise to your Financial Adviser.

Your Financial Adviser may also be paid commission payments and performance related bonuses by external product issuers that are not related to us.

Your Financial Adviser may pay a fee to ClearView for dealership services.

Other Non-monetary Benefits

Financial Advisers may receive other benefits such as:

- Educational conferences and seminars
- Non-monetary benefits: these may include business lunches, tickets to sporting and cultural events, or other minor benefits from associated ClearView companies or product providers.

Any specific arrangements will be disclosed in your Advice Document.

In addition, your Financial Adviser may hold shares in ClearView related companies such as ClearView Wealth Limited (ACN 106 248 248) through an arrangement with ClearView or by purchasing them separately through the ASX. Our Financial Advisers, their associated companies and trusts may receive dividends in respect of these shares. Specific details of any interest your Financial Adviser has in ClearView will be disclosed in your Advice Document.

Will anyone be paid for referring me to my financial adviser?

If someone has referred you to us, we may pay a fee or commission in relation to that referral. ClearView may pay a referral fee to a referral partner which may range from 0% to 50% of the initial and/or ongoing fees or commissions. Where a referral fee is paid, details will be provided to you in your Advice Document.

you and do not increase any fee that would otherwise be charged by the provider if the arrangements were not in place.

Rebates paid by external product providers constitute revenue to ClearView and your Financial Adviser may be entitled to a share. A Financial Adviser's potential share is based on future funds under advice and in force risk premiums and cannot be quantified in advance.
